THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. New cotton "plantations" have been developed between the villages of Rosetti and Tanea in the Ialomita region of Rumania under the supervision of Soviet experts.
2. The installations for the irrigation of these plantations are Soviet-made. The water runs through a system of small channels having a total length of 6,500 meters. The area under cultivation is approximately 1700 hectares.
3. More than 1,000 peasants have been moved from other areas of Rumania in order to work at these "plantations." They are accommodated in improvised encampments surrounded by a wire fence. Members of the Militia are guarding the whole area.
